K.O.O.F. Celebrate

In Honor of Founder

Oddfellows and Rebekahs of Wainwright met in the I.O.O.F. auditorium on Monday last, to do honor to F.G.S. Thomas Wilsey, founder of the order in America.

The hall was comfortably filled with a jolly crowd of members of the order and a few invited guests.

The entertainment took the form of a valentine party and the arrangements were ably carried out by Bro. W. Carrell and his staff committee.

The program opened with a short address by the chairman, Rev. Mr. Brooker, on the life of Thomas Wilsey. This was followed by several musical selections interspersed by readings, games and the "Valentine Mail Box."

The guests then sat down to a most delightful luncheon served by the lady Rebekahs, and served in true Rebekah style. The luncheon was a real treat.

When all had done justice to the delicatessen, the tables were cleared and the remainder of the evening was spent in tripping the light fantastic to dance-inspiring music from Mr. Alex. Adam's violin with Mr. Charlie Lilly on the piano.

Taken all together, it was a very pleasant evening's entertainment and thoroughly enjoyed by all present.

The meeting following Sunday, February 18, was under the Literary committee. Florence Tury was in charge.

Technocracy New?

It's As Old As The Mechanical Age

By EDWARD O. MAYL

Technocracy really is quite old, almost as old as the present mechanical age, or factory system, once hailed as the handmaid of civilization.

Actually the machine age is barely 150 years old, although mechanical contrivances were employed by the ancients.

While mechanical contrivances have been used for the production of necessities down through the ages, it was not until the latter part of the eighteenth century that the possibilities of the factory or of mass production were discovered.

It is generally conceded that to the textile industry of Great Britain belongs the credit for pointing out the possibilities of the factory system.

The First Big Step

John Kay, inventor of the flying shuttle in 1738 made the first great step. A few months later John Wyatt invented the spinning machine but it was not until 30 years later that a barber at Preston, who later became Sir Richard Arkwright, perfected the principle of spinning by rollers. The names of James Hargreaves inventor of the spinning jenny and Dr. Edward Cartwright inventor of the first power loom, are also close in alliance with the birth of the factory system.

Instead of being hailed as the saviors of mankind, these men met with immediate condemnation by the English cottager, and Hargreaves was so persecuted by his neighbors that he was forced to leave his native county for Nottingham where he perfected his invention.

Kay's flying shuttle made it possible to weave cloth of great width.

Roller Spinning

Wyatt perfected a method of spinning by rollers, expecting that a single pair of hands could spin as many as a thousand threads. He failed to accomplish more than blaze the trail for Arkwright.

Before the time of the Preston barber and Hargreaves, all the work of the textile industry was performed in the home of the cottier. Preston simply took the methods of Kay and Wyatt and became the "father of the spinning machine."

From 1764 to 1767 Hargreaves worked with his crude machines, and then exhibited his spinning jenny by which several spindles were driven by belts from the same wheel. He was thus able to multiply his production of yarn, and increase his earning power.

In 1776 Samuel Crompton perfected a combination of the jenny and the frame of Arkwright and issued a

Hockey News

During the past week the local hockey boys were about the busiest aggregation of puck-chasers to be found in any man's town.

On Thursday the Gilt Edge Sod Busters met in deadly combat with a team selected from Wainwright overflows.

It was fully expected the rugged lads from the country would put the local team on skids; but the unexpected happened, and after 60 minutes of mad scramble the Wainwright kids came off the ice carrying their colors high.

While the above battle was in progress, the senior team was supposed to be in Hughenden trying to bring honor to Wainwright. We use the word "supposed" because we understand a number of the senior players did "not" make the trip to Hughenden. Why?

Oh, counter attractions, you know. There is a dance in town tonight and—Oh, I will play when Hughenden comes over to Wainwright, alright.

Hello! Hello! (girl's voice). That the manager of the hockey team? (Man's voice) Yes, what can I do for you?

(Girls voice): Well, say; can't you postpone that game at Hughenden tonight? Why do you want to take away all the boys when there is a dance in town?

(Man's voice, sweetly): Oh, I will bring them all back again.

(Girl's voice): Oh! Oh! . . .

SAY! We are finding out every day just why Wainwright is away behind other towns in the line of sport and it is summed up in two words: No Co-operation.

Percy Page is manager of the Grads; the greatest women's basketball team in the world.

When Percy Page says: "Grads! No dance for you tonight!" They stay home. When Percy Page says: "No late lunch with cheese sandwiches." When Percy Page says: "Bedtime is 10:30 for the next ten days. We play Toronto soon." Every last little Grad is snugly tucked in the blankets at 10:30 each night and they do it with a smile.

That is co-operation, and that is the stuff championship teams are made of.

We know the girls of Wainwright can pick up a boy friend any day in the week but it is only once in a decade that a town of this size can boast of a champion hockey team.

Girls, please get behind your home town team; and boys, if the girls are lonesome when you go out to play in other towns, take them with you.

Nothing really great was ever achieved without sacrifice; and if the boys and girls and townspeople can't sacrifice a little to make their town worth living in; then I say: Let the powers that be cover the old clock tower with sheets of bronze, and inscribe thereon the names of the citizens of Wainwright as a lasting memorial to a dead town full of dead people.

The game at Hughenden on Tuesday night was pretty much Hughenden. The Wainwright team was weakened by the absence of a number of their stalwarts. It was a good game withal but rather one-sided. Score 9-3 in favor of Hughenden.

Thursday evening, Hughenden again visited at Wainwright and in this game the locals were at full strength and the visitors were working under the handicap of having only one substitute player. It was a well fought battle and delighted the large crowd present. The score at full time was 1-1, Courts getting one for Hughenden on a pass from Martineau in the second period; and Murray scored for Wainwright in the third on a nice combination play with Dupre.

On Friday night Wainwright again visited Hughenden and from what we can learn it was a real thriller. At one time Hughenden had the Wainwright boys down 5-1, but the north-erners made a great rally and the game finished up 6-5 in favor of Hughenden. Efforts are being made to have other good teams here in the near future.

THE WAINWRIGHT STAR

JOHN W. JOHNSTON
Editor and Publisher

WAINWRIGHT, ALBERTA

FEBRUARY 21st, 1933

IT CAN'T BE DONE—

Ever since the first newspaper was published and up to the present time it has been impossible for a publisher to satisfy all the people. He may do his best; employ the best writers; use the latest machinery; issue on any or every day of the week, and yet the people will not be satisfied. When the present editor came to Wainwright, Wednesday was publication day for the Wainwright Star. We continued to publish on Wednesday—but delayed the distribution of the papers until Friday. This didn't suit either advertisers or readers, judging from the complaints that were in circulation. It was said that the paper didn't reach the people early enough in the week to be of benefit to advertisers, therefore a majority did not patronize our advertising columns. Then came a time—last week—when we decided to issue earlier in the week—on Tuesday. What happened? We lost one of our best advertisers—because the Star came out too early in the week to be of use for advertising week-end specials. That was the excuse given the editor.

Some complaint is made because the Star was reduced in size from eight pages to four pages. This was an absolute necessity because the merchants of Wainwright were not giving support to justify an eight-page paper. So far as the local news is concerned, it will be our endeavor to fill the columns with all the live items we can get hold of. And whenever the advertising support will justify eight pages then we will be only too pleased to give the people that—and more if required.

The editor is very thankful to those who are offering us each week assistance in the matter of news items and hopes that they will continue to assist us, and that others will follow in line and give us any items possible. It is impossible to change the day of publication of a newspaper at everybody's whim, therefore, the Star will issue every Tuesday in the future.

THE HIT AND RUN MENACE

It is hardly necessary to say that every effort should be made to apprehend motorists who flee from the scene of an accident, leaving a victim helpless in the road. Such a person offends all sense of decency and every dictate of civilization.

One appreciates that for a moment a motorist might be panic-stricken when he realizes he has struck down a fellow-being. But he who yields to fear and flees the scene convicts himself of cowardice. But he who, actuated only by cunning, leaves a human being in distress, is worse than a coward.

An appeal to manhood where there is no manhood is futile. So long as there is a possibility of escaping the consequences of carelessness there will be those who will attempt it. The only effective check against the hit-and-run driver is increased efficiency of the police in ferreting out such offenders and a severity of the courts that will make an attempted escape a greater hazard than stopping after an accident to render assistance to the injured and face the consequences. For people who are actuated by fear make the consequences of abandoning a victim a cause for greater fear. Make it clear to the cunning that their greater advantage lies in admitting responsibility for the accident if the fault is theirs.

And the public can help abolish the hit-and-run driver by letting the motorist know that should he stop his machine he will not become the victim of mob violence.

COMMUNITY PROGRESS

While Wainwright has much to boast of as it considers past achievements, it would be sheer folly at this stage of community development to rest content with past laurels and cease striving for further advancement.

Wainwright's present high standing among centres of equal population has been won by foresight and aggressive policies in the past. This generation should be just as eager to assure an enviable future for the community as were those men of former generations who often fought a stiff up-hill fight to gain those things upon which the city's present prestige stands.

Never before in its history has Wainwright been in such a good position to go forward in rapid and substantial development as right now. It has all its pristine attractions plus many of relatively recent acquisition.

Indoor Gardening Season Is Here

The season for indoor gardening is here! From now until the time when spring actually arrives, countless Canadians will spend hour after hour poring over the brilliantly illustrated pages of the seed catalogues, hoping for an early thaw and tasting, mentally, of the delights which come to jaded appetites with the appearance of the first fresh vegetables of the year.

Then, there is the fun of planning the flower pot, an important first step and one which is best undertaken at this season of the year well in advance of the time when home gardeners can actually take to the yard with shovel, hoe, rake and trowel. Flower gardens, well planned ahead of the planting season, usually present the most beautiful arrangement as to height of the various plants and an assortment of varieties which bloom in succession so that the garden is never without flowers.

The annual catalogue of A. E. McKenzie Co., Ltd., whose headquarters are Brandon, has just been mailed to customers throughout the prairie provinces. It contains all of the standard and reliable varieties which have been grown in Canada successfully in past seasons, and, in addition, includes a large number of new varieties which, according to tests, are thoroughly adaptable to the Canadian soil and climate and will add further variety to garden crops.

Included is a Sand Cherry, a juicy blue fruit, used for pies, jams and preserves. The small tree, or bush, on which it grows is hardy and has been especially bred for adaptability to Canadian conditions.

But to do the things that must be done if the community is to progress along desirable lines of commercial, industrial and residential expansion and betterment there must be no diminution of that spirit of co-operation and willing effort on the part of a considerable number of citizens which has been manifested in all its past accomplishments.

And just as men and women of vision and civic consciousness have always been available in the past, so will they come to the service of the community in future hours of need.

This is the second year McKenzie catalogue has listed commercial offering of Crested Wheat Grass which is expected to solve, in large measure, the feed problem of western Canada, because of its hardness and its resistance to drought.

To inspire interest in the World's Grain Exhibition and Conference, which is scheduled for Regina July 24 to August 5, the company announces in its catalogue two contests in which $5,215 in cash prizes will be awarded for letters relating to the exhibition, for predictions of total attendance, and so on.

Attempt Made To Assassinate

President-Elect Roosevelt

WOUNDS MAYOR OF CHICAGO AND FOUR OTHERS

MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 16.—A gunman with poor aim made an attempt last night to assassinate President-elect Franklin D. Roosevelt of the United States but his shots instead seriously wounded Anton Cermak, mayor of Chicago, and four other persons.

He was a stocky, swarthy complexioned assailant with curly black hair who fired on the president-elect's party in a Miami street crowd. Mr. Roosevelt was not hurt.

The would-be assassin said he was Joe Zangara of New York, and told police he attempted to kill the king of Italy some years ago.

"I'm sorry I didn't kill him," the gunman told police. "I want to kill all presidents—all officers."

Mayor Cermak, talking to Mr. Roosevelt from his hospital bed said, "I'm glad it was me instead of you."

The Chicago mayor's condition was reported serious, but first plans to perform an emergency operation were abandoned for the time being.

The president-elect was hurried away from the scene of the shooting and postponed his scheduled trip to New York—going to the hospital where he visited all the victims. Then he returned to the yacht of Vincent Astor from which he had just landed after his fishing cruise in southern waters.

En route to the train after landing he stopped at 9:30 p.m., amid a huge throng in Bay Front park to speak a word of greeting. He had just concluded when the shooting occurred.

The gunman fired about 25 feet away from Roosevelt's automobile. Startled, the president-elect waved an assuring arm to the crowd and to those near him said: "Tell them I am all right."

Pandemonium broke loose.

Crowd Mills Madly

While officers pounced on the struggling shooter, men and women milled madly about. Quiet was quickly restored. Soon Miami was quiet and sad. Each of the five shots fired into the crowd around the Roosevelt car took effect.

The other wounded are: Mrs. Joe Gill of Miami, shot in abdomen; Miss Margaret Drus of Newark, N.J., shot in hand.

William Simon, New York policeman, shot in head.

Russell Caldwell of Miami, shot in head.

Early today the victims were all reported as having a chance.

The president-elect preferred to make no statement on the incident.

No Other Arrests

Joe Murphy, assistant chief of the United States secret service, was here and took over the examination of Zangara. He made no comment but police believe Zangara was acting individually.

A huge crowd waited until after 11 o'clock for Mr. Roosevelt to return to the train. The station is just across the street from the skyscraper jail where the prisoner was undergoing questioning. The crowd dispersed when it became known that Roosevelt was not leaving. Police precautions were redoubled last night but there was no sign of further trouble.

"I am sore at government," Zangara is reported to have said, "because as a kid I had to work instead of going to school, and I am sick now because I had to work."

"I am a member of no party. I believe that Bolshevism is all right."

"I have done my own thinking and I reached this decision by myself."

Mr. Roosevelt had just sat down in the back seat of his car after speaking when the firing opened. Mayor Gaultier of Miami was beside him.

As the shooting echoed in the tropical night screams and shouts resounded.

"Stop that man—lynch him—don't let him kill Roosevelt," were heard. It was a woman who first jarred the firing arm of the would-be killer—Mrs. W. E. Cross of Miami.

James Galloway of Miami Beach grabbed the arm of the shooter. George Broadnax, a secret service man, and police leaped upon him.

With an old-fashioned .32 calibre pistol Giuseppe Zangara shot wildly into the crowd gathered about the automobile of Mr. Roosevelt in the picturesque Bay Front park just as the next president had concluded a brief speech.

Mayor Cermak, standing just behind the Roosevelt car, was among the first hit. A bullet lodged in his abdomen and an operation was contemplated as physicians reported he had a little better than a 50-50 chance to live.

Shocked and Startled

Shocked and startled by the gun play, Mr. Roosevelt waited to pick up the Chicago mayor, and sped to the hospital with him. He remained there to visit the other victims and cancelled his train departure for New York until today.

Confusion prevailed for a few minutes as the crowd milled about. Secret service men and police pounced on the gunman. Women screamed.

Looking back from his car, Roosevelt waited for Cermak to be lifted into his car, waved reassuringly to the crowd and told those near: "Tell them I am all right."

President Hoover immediately communicated with Mr. Roosevelt by wire. He said:

"Together with every citizen, I rejoice that you have not been injured. I shall be grateful to you for news of Mayor Cermak's condition."

The president-elect replied:

"I deeply appreciate your message. Mayor Cermak is resting but his condition is still serious."

Gruesome examination of the swarthy complexioned, stocky-built assassin by secret service men and Miami officials brought out a disconnected, weird story.

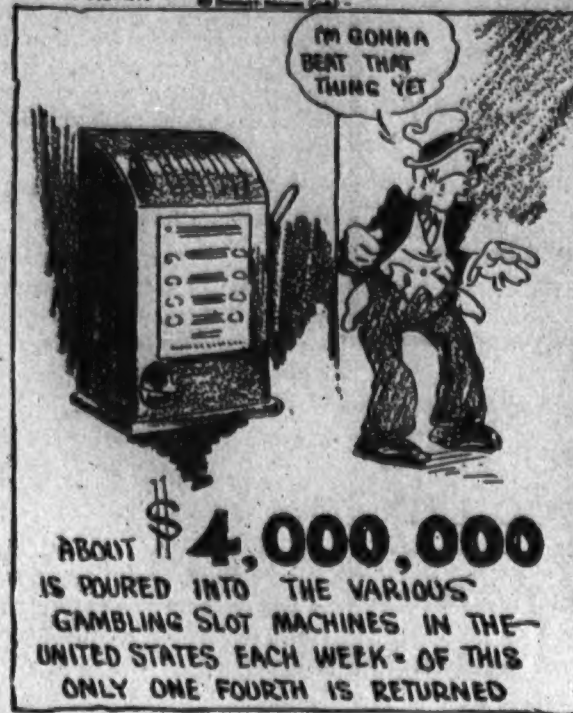

According to their account, Zangara purchased his pistol in a pawnshop here three days ago for $8. He told them he intended to kill President Hoover, but when he read that Mr. Roosevelt was coming here he decided to give attention to him.

Police early today took into custody under suspicion Andrea Valenti, who lives at the same address as Zangara.

Newspaper clippings found on Zangara reported the movements of Mr. Roosevelt and police said one of the clippings told the story of the assassination of President McKinley.

Cermak sagged to the pavement. Mrs. Gill also fell. The victims appeared stunned. It was the bystanders who did the shouting and screaming. Newspapermen and photographers were gathered close to the car. It was over the shoulder of Rex Saffer, correspondent of the Associated Press bureau in Miami, that the shooter had fired.

Mrs. Cross gave the following account:

"When the president-elect stood up to make his speech so many stood up in front of me that I couldn't see. So I stood up on the benches. This man stood up with me and the bench almost folded up. I looked around. Then I saw he had a pistol and he began shooting toward the president-elect. I grabbed his hand which held the pistol and pushed it up in the air and called for help. Tom Armour also grabbed his hand and we held it up in the air so he couldn't shoot any more. By that time some men were choking him."

Miami citizens were outraged at the attack made on the president-elect in their city but there was complete order.

Police Doubled

Police details were doubled and every precaution exercised. So strong was the detail that some of the press members of the Roosevelt party were temporarily arrested when they sought to get back to the Roosevelt train.

The president-elect was calm throughout the incident. He went to bed aboard the Vincent Astor yacht tied to a dock here early today. He was deeply affected, however, by the wounding of his friends.

Police indicated early today after lengthy examination of Valenti, who was taken into custody on suspicion, that they did not believe him identified in any way with the attack made by Zangara on President-elect Roosevelt. He was held temporarily in custody but the conviction grew that it was a one-man job.

The penalty for attempted assassination in Florida is life imprisonment and that for assassination death.

THE inherent strength of life assurance has been tested and proved during the past three years of general business recession, and the invaluable service it renders the public in times of emergency fully demonstrated.

THE Sun Life of Canada, during this period—probably the most trying in human experience—has maintained its record of progress, and has been of especial service to its great body of policyholders throughout the world.

Applications for new assurances were received by the Company during 1932 at an average rate of more than $1,000,000 for every working day.

During 1932 the Company paid to policyholders and beneficiaries more than $360,000 for every working day.

Income from renewal premiums was the largest ever received by the Company in a single year.

Cash in repayment or reduction of policy loans exceeded in amount that of any previous year.

Revivals of lapsed policies were in excess of those of any previous year, with one exception.

The net amount of policy proceeds left with the Company at interest was substantially increased.

Another Typesetting Machine
Installed at The Star Office

Last week another typesetting machine—an Intertype—one of the most up-to-date machines on the market, was installed in the Star office to take care of the increasing business.

It was found that although our Linotype machine was operated night and day, it was impossible to keep up with the work at this office, therefore the new equipment has been added.

Few people realize the amount of type necessary in turning out a newspaper, or the speed with which type can be set on an Intertype or Linotype machine, therefore we tender an invitation to the people of Wainwright and district to drop in at the Star office and inspect these machines. You sure will be interested.

Mrs. Frank McLeod left on Wednesday for Edmonton where she expects to attend the Anglican diocesan conference of the W.A., and also the conference of the A.Y.P.A. held at All Saints' cathedral on Saturday and Sunday.

Social events in some of the country points west of town are very cheap these days. A few weeks ago we heard the admittance price was 10c for what, supper and dance. Now the price has taken a decided drop, and last week's price was 10c per family. We wonder what they will charge next week and if there will be another cut in price.

Several of the members of the St. Thomas A.Y.P.A. left on Saturday to attend the conference of that organization which is being held in Edmonton on February 18 and 19. Those attending are: Mr. G. Barr, Miss Kathleen Hart, Miss Helen Clifton, Mr. Cliff Bradley, Mr. Jack Alderman, Mr. and Mrs. Gene Tory and others.

The fourth of a series of pre-Lenten whist drives was held at the Masonic hall on Monday evening last, when nine tables were in play. Ladies first prize (parcel of groceries) was won by Mrs. O. R. Hannah; the gent's first prize (groceries) was won by Mr. Bryan; the consolation prizes, packages of brown sugar, were won by Miss H. Smart and Arthur Bateman. Another of these whist drives on Monday, February 20. The last of the series will be held on Tuesday, February 28, and not on Monday, owing to the band concert on that night.

A very enjoyable St. Valentine's dance was held in the Elite theatre on Tuesday, February 14, by St. Thomas A.Y.P.A., with nearly a hundred couples on the floor. The hall was decorated with the association colors of blue and white intermingled with red hearts. The music was supplied by the Rythm Kings orchestra and the dance opened with a grand march. There were a few novelty dances, principal among these were the old-fashioned waltz and ballroom dance. The prize for the old-fashioned waltz was won by Mr. and Mrs. J. Telford and the ballroom dance by Miss Johnston and Mrs. E. Michon. Lunch was served and dancing continued until 2:30 a.m.

HUMOR

"Have you much room in your new flat?"

"Mercy, no! My kitchen and dining room are so small, I have to use condensed milk."

Judge—Isn't this the fifth time you have been arrested for drunkenness?

Old Friend Set—Don't ask me. I thought you'd keepin' score!

Secretary (to theatrical manager)—That cleaner is the limit. She's lost Cleopatra's crown and jewels this time!

Manager—Oh, well, make her pay the full value for them. Deduct a quarter from her wages for ten weeks.

Old Slow Poke—Master Jackson, er—that is, I would like to, er—that is, I mean I have been going with your daughter for five years.

Old Man—Well, whadda ya want—a pension?

Customs Officer (suspiciously)—Why are you holding your handkerchief to your face?

Returning Tourist—There's a bit of cinder in my eye.

Ah! foreign substance! You'll have to pay duty on it.

Patron—May I have some stationery?

Hotel Clerk (haughtily)—Are you a guest of the house?

Patron—Heck, no. I'm paying $20 a day.

A cynic recently said of his wife: "At the end of the evening she was so tired she could hardly keep her mouth open."

A doctor had been to see one of his patients, a widow.

"You are slightly morbid, my dear lady," he said. "You should look about you and marry again."

"O, Doctor," she answered coyly, "is this a proposal?"

"Allow me to remind you, madame," came the reply, "that a doctor prescribes medicine, but he doesn't take it."
